7.3.2 - Plan of action for the next academic year

During the current session most of the programme were organized through online resources and students were supported by online teaching methods and materials. Examination processes were partially conducted only for final year students with reduced number of papers and time. In this way it is very necessary to facilitate larger number of students to use ICT infrastructure and use of E-resources for their studies. However the number of students in the college is larger approximately 14000 and most of the students belongs to rural areas of the district with poor family background, thus it is very necessary to equip them with Government funded ICT tools. Institution will focus more on organization of online courses and e-resources.
